

14.11.2018,
10-17,
V2-216

Young Women in Theoretical Sciences

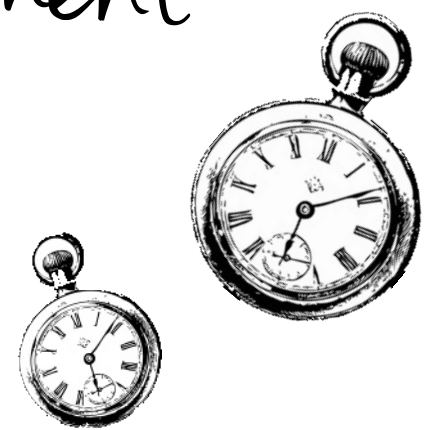

Softskill-Workshop

Time and Self Management

Dr. Vera Leberecht

One-day workshop for female Master Students, PhD Students and PostDocs in Theoretical Sciences to share experiences with time and self management, discuss strategies and techniques and become better equipped for planning more realistically and for working more efficiently and effectively, both within academia and beyond.

- Where am I now?
- What is important to me in research, work and life?
- How can I get all this done?
- Where do I want to be and how do I get there?

With whom? Vera Leberecht, PhD, is a trainer and coach for writing and other work that makes sense, in and outside academia. She studied Linguistics, Intercultural Communication, and Theology in Germany and Finland. While writing her PhD on communication in university office hours, she also found the time to start a plurilingual family. Before setting up her own business in 2008, she worked at the English Department of the Language Centre at Maastricht University in Maastricht, the Netherlands, where she is still living.

 SFB 1283

Limited number of participants! Please register until Friday, 09.11., via e-mail.
This workshop is financed by the CRC 1283.

Contact: Andrea Nickel, V4-221, youngwomen@math.uni-bielefeld.de